Faith in the frame at Rathmore exhibition

A SPECIAL exhibition providing a creative opportunity for young people to explore their faith through photography was launched by Bishop Ray Browne in Rathmore's Teach Iosagain on Friday night.

The 'faithfoto project' is a Diocese of Kerry initiative providing young people from the parish of Rathmore involved in exploring what faith means to them with an opportunity to express their faith in images through photography.

The young people participated in workshops by photo journalist

Eileen O'Leary to develop their skills in photography. They have been involved in photographing images of faith being lived out in their community.
